

April 11/85

new computer text. you boot disk and it says "well?" and waits. then "if you wish to continue type yes or no" etc. i.e. it acts like interactive fiction but you can't interact.

-- this came out of a near dream in which i was in the process of reading on of Arthur Upfield's books (true) and in the dream i was suddenly one of the characters and they were questioning me but i still knew i was just the reader.

-- should open disk NEW TEXTS with this then when this piece has run its course switch over to the title screen etc.

VARIATIONpsychotic interactive fiction game. no matter what you type you're lead on deeper into the game, the various characters ignoring your response. you are known as the mad one. then at a certain point you regain your sanity and can affect things again.

FOR MUSIC PROJECT

-- it makes sense that notation is the last show (as it were). maybe the aliens never knew you could notate sound. then all they have to do is collect the sounds that make the instruments. this could be something RIFF and REMY teach them - in fact for him he always has to hear a sound before he can repeat it - language is a notation to - (REMY is a composer who uses standard notation) - HUMRUNNER's people got recording before they got notation - he would still need to record - (H's ears bigger than normal)

-- the other show should start with breakfast and a belch.
